

DYCKMAN FARMHOUSE MUSEUM “KEY TO NYC” REQUIREMENTS

The Dyckman Farmhouse Museum, as a business covered by the requirement of “Key to NYC: Vaccination Required for Indoor Establishments,” is required by the City of New York to check the vaccination status of all staff and visitors 12 years of age and older.

Starting August 17th 2021, upon entering the museum, people 12 and older will be required to show proof they have received at least one dose of a COVID-19 vaccine authorized for emergency use by the FDA or WHO.

An individual who refuses to show proof of vaccination may not enter the museum. The Dyckman Farmhouse Museum may not permit entry to anyone 12 and older who has not received at least one dose of the COVID-19 vaccine. As of September 13, 2021, an establishment found to be noncompliant may be subject to a fine of $1,000.

ACCOMODATIONS AND EXCEPTIONS

The Dyckman Farmhouse Museum is welcoming to individual needs and will consider appropriate reasonable accommodations, mindful of the purposes behind this policy and public health.

Under this new guidance, indoor dining, fitness and entertainment venues must accept valid proof that you received at least one dose of any vaccine authorized for emergency use by the FDA or WHO. This requirement may not be used as an excuse for businesses to discriminate against anyone who has valid vaccination proof.

You have a right to be free from discrimination or harassment. If you believe you have been discriminated against because of who you are, including your race, national origin or disability, contact the NYC Commission on Human Rights.
